The Best Way to Learn

The Barn Studio of Art is a non competitive environment.

The Barn Studio does not teach by having the student copy or trace, nor does it ask for a quantity of productions. Each student is accepted as an individual. Creativity and originality are encouraged. Each student progresses at their own pace. Concepts are introduced only when the individual student is ready. Fundamentals based on tradition are introduced and self-discipline is encouraged, along with the development of self esteem, self confidence, and the willingness to make mistakes.

During the year guest artists will come to the Barn to provide lecture-demonstration workshops in many mediums. All the guests are top professionals in their own given field as the student must be provided exposure to the very best ideals when developing towards a career in art.

Nature Walks and Discovery

The gardens are in full bloom in the summer and nature is just around the corner. The pond is full of goldfish and water lilies, while colorful dragonflies buzz overhead. The children love to explore on the nature trails and collect precious treasures along the way.

Here's how the children describe their walks:

I like to pick up cool things about nature.
— Amelia

I like the woods because it looks pretty and the bamboo because it's nice.
— Ryan

I like everything!
— Olivia Fields
